Tombstone marker reported found at Lake Kohlmier

Written by Ronald E Houghtelin
Owatonna, Minnesota 55060 - June 1987

It was discovered that a tombstone marker was found at the south end of Kohlmier Lake in Owatonna sometime this spring. The lake was an old gravel pit used by the Kohlmier construction company, used as a public swimming area on the north end for several years and is used for recreational purposes such as fishing.

The lake was given to the city of Owatonna several years back prior to 1965. It must have been open or very close to open at the south end of the lake near the Straight River.

Sometime following (1965) the lake property now was controlled by the City of Owatonna, a project to place some culvert drain pipes between Kohlmier Lake and Straight River was done. During this project hauling of earth materials by Owatonna city trucks and some loads of materials were also hauled by some Steele County trucks.

By coincidence, I was at the project when one of the Steele County trucks dumped the tombstone markers into the culvert area for fill and as were other stone and concrete materials to help hold the drainage pipes in place. I was working for the Minnesota state highway dept at the time and my boss had driven over on the west side of the gravel pit to get information from one of the county men about some survey information on another matter.

As we were waiting some of the workers and truck drivers were commenting on the tombstones one of the county truck drivers had on his load and as it was dumped some one made the comment that one of the tombstones slid out further into the water than the others. It was two or four tombstones mentioned by the drivers. I am uncertain of the exact number mentioned because at that time I was not really interested in cemeteries or tombstones.

I became interested in genealogy (Family Trees) about ten years ago and later I felt that Steele Co early cemetery records, (used by people working on family trees) were none existent and not available, So I worked for three years making a record of each of the old cemeteries in the county. This information will be available in booklet form. So I know the cemeteries in Steele Co pretty well and it seems clear these tombstone markers came from the old cemetery in Lemond Twp called Old Pontoppandant or early called the Lemond Cemetery in the north part of section 21.

When the twp road north of the old Lemond Cemetery was built in 1951, I worked for the Steele County Highway Dept on the survey crew and comments were made by people from the area about "seemed to be too close to some graves and tombstones". These statements are factual on my part of the mystery of how the tombstone marker got into Kohlmier Lake. This part following is speculation on my part as I review the events of this mystery.

I only helped put in the lath line for the new twp road on the north side of the old Lemond Cemetery and then our survey crew left this project and I didn't see the tombstones so I could not really identify them as the exact ones found at Kohlmier Lake. I will really speculate on this and present the events as I think they probably happened. When the road was constructed near the tombstone markers at the old Lemond Cemetery in 1950 they were probably laid down near the top of the bank in the cemetery which had grown up in a condition of briars and neglect. Someone probably didn't think they were important anymore.

Fifteen years later in 1965, one of the county truck drivers must have seen the tombstone markers lying on the upper bank of the roadway and hauled them into the project at the south end of the Lake Kohlmier project. The markers probably didn't seem important to the truck driver and would seem like some good heavy stones to help hold down the drainage pipes.

On Saturday of June 6 1987 one of the scuba divers in Owatonna came to me and told me about a tombstone found at the south end of Lake Kohlmier after it was drained for work on the lake. I told him I would go and check it out. So I parked and hiked to the site and found the tombstone in the sand. I recorded the information on the stone which I will list in this report. I looked for evidence of a cemetery where a bouts but could not find anything like a cemetery. Then I checked around the drainage pipes and found evidence of another marker and possibly some tombstone bases too.

It was then I began to remember the incidence of about 1965, when the dumping and construction of the drainage pipes was done. The names I have from the tombstone are probably from Lemond twp in the area of the old Lemond Cemetery. The language seems to collaborate this also. I had made an extensive search and record of this cemetery (old Lemond Cemetery in 1985/1986 and early in the spring 1987 after the county crews cleaned it up. So I am familiar with this cemetery and the general layout.

I will make other record checks later and I would like to see the other tomb stones removed from the project area and read those names to verify where they came from for certain. If they came from the old Lemond Cemetery, then they should be moved back to the cemetery and erected and restored to mark as closely as possible the graves of those that the tombstones represented.

At the present time this cemetery is being restored and cleaned up by the Steele County crews, so I don't think this would be a large project to recover the tombstone markers at Lake Kohlmier and restore them to the old Lemond Cemetery. The 1880 census show these people lived in Lemond Twp near the old Lemond town Cemetery, so I will list them in that cemetery

The following data is from the one tombstone marker at Lake Kohlmier that is on the sand at the south end location. "Larsen" all names on this stone are from the same family.

Inscriptions are in Norwegian or Danish language:

*Bomem? il Sigurd og Gunild Larsen
inscription was hard to read but I have it as :
Hir hetter i Fred 4 Suskenda.
This is all I could find to read on this one tombstone.

I also found on the east end of the drainage pipes at Lake Kohlmier the end of a 30"x 12" length unknown, granite stone and also what appears to be the top or at least a beveled stone that could be another tombstone marker used as rip rap or ballast. This is all the information I have about the tombstone found at Kohlmier Lake.

end of cemetery report

Recorded July 29 1985 by Ron Houghtelin, Owatonna, Minnesota

Walcott Union Cemetery was revisited June 2 2003 and some demographical errors were corrected on this report taken place since the report in 1985 and the dates were added for the markers that were recorded in 1985. (that to burials).

All new burials since the 1985 report that had no prior markers, were recorded June 2 2003 and I hope I did not at random in sections 2 and 3. If they were in section 1 (north section) I did not check for recent burials. I am confident older pioneers of the Medford area are buried in this cemetery. I could not find a marker for Orlando Johnson, & is marked. I made up an update page for the burials after the 1985 report except as noted.

End of the report for June 2 2003 of the Walcott Union Cemetery

Located in section 4 of Medford Township Steele County Minnesota

Ron Houghtelin Owatonna Minnesota

Zion Lutheran Church Cemetery

Recorded March 24 1987

Ron Houghtelin Owatonna, Minnesota

This cemetery is located in Lemond Twp in the east church yard of the Zion Lutheran Church at the S/W corner. The west side of the church yard is next to Steele County Road 28, 1 1/2 miles south of Steele County Road 4. This cemetery is maintained and is fenced on the north and the east sides only.

I recorded the burials in 4 rows running north and south and started with row 1 as the row to the west and recorded from north to south and then moved to row 2 just east and recorded from north to south and then to row 3 and back north etc. I recorded for association of the families.

Row 1 (west row) south to north
